

Modification

1. 5.3.3.1 Use of stations for stopping by passenger trains stopping

The following modification was made:

If a train in its route runs via a service place from where it is possible to reach the destination station of the train only by changing the running direction, the service called "Use of station" shall be requested for the service place in case of changing the direction.

2. 5.3.4 Use of stations by freight trains

The following modification was made:

If a train in its route runs via a service place from where it is possible to reach the destination station of the train only by changing the running direction, the service called "Use of station" shall be requested for the service place in case of changing the direction.